The Vetting Standard

How To Know She Is Real Before You Board The Plane

Author · The International Lover™

This guide is for the man of high value who refuses to be taken advantage of. It is drawn from thirty years of personal experience, international travel, and the testimony of men who have succeeded — and men who have not.

SECTION ONE

Why Vetting Is Not Optional

The man who travels internationally in pursuit of a wife enters a landscape that rewards the prepared and punishes the romantic. This is not a statement about women. It is a statement about reality.

On every major matrimonial platform — Muslima, SimplyMarry, ChristianMingle filtered by region — fraud operates alongside genuine women. In some cases, the fraud is organized: a man coordinates multiple women, coaches their responses, and shares in the financial extraction. In other cases, the fraud is personal: a woman who sees in a foreign suitor the solution to a problem she does not know how to solve any other way.

Neither form of fraud announces itself. Both perform sincerity. Both know what you want to hear. The difference between the man who succeeds and the man who does not is not luck. It is the standard he applies before his emotions engage.

"The man who vets correctly never has to recover from what he should have seen coming."

Vetting is not distrust. It is discernment. The man of high value does not approach a potential wife with suspicion — he approaches her with a standard. The standard protects both of them. It protects him from fraud. It protects her from a man who is not serious. A woman who is genuine will recognize and respect the standard. A woman who is not will reveal herself against it.

SECTION TWO

The Twelve Warning Signs

These patterns are consistent across regions, platforms, and demographics. They appear in Morocco and in Manila, in Amman and in Accra. Learn them. They will save you.

SIGNAL 01

She initiated contact within hours of your profile going live — with warm, specific language that felt personal.

The opening move of organized fraud is precisely this: a message that feels like it was written for you, delivered before any genuine woman has had time to read your profile carefully. Speed combined with specificity is the signature.

SIGNAL 02

Her English is perfect regardless of her stated education level or country.

Fluency beyond what her background warrants — especially combined with constant availability across time zones — suggests either a professional operation or that the person you are speaking with is not who the profile claims.

SIGNAL 03

Small financial crises appear within the first two to four weeks.

Phone repair. Medical bill. Transportation. A family emergency. The amount is always modest — small enough that a man of means dismisses it as trivial. That is the design. The first transaction establishes the pattern. It is never the last.

SIGNAL 04

She expresses deep emotional attachment faster than the relationship's length warrants.

Genuine emotional intimacy develops over time through shared experience. What develops in two weeks of messaging is familiarity, not love. When the declaration arrives too early, the question is not whether it is real — it is what it is designed to produce in you.

SIGNAL 05

She declines spontaneous video calls or is always about to go somewhere.

The spontaneous video call is your most reliable vetting tool. A woman who is who she claims to be will answer it or call back when she can. A woman who is managing a performance will find reasons why now is not a good time — consistently.

SIGNAL 06

Her social media accounts were created around the same time your correspondence began.

A woman who has lived a real life leaves a digital trail across time. An account created eight weeks ago, with posts only from the last two months, is not a person's history. It is a profile.

Reverse image search returns her photos under a different name.

This is the fastest and most decisive test available. Go to images.google.com, upload her photo, and read the results. If the same face appears under a different name on a different platform — you have your answer and you did not have to board a plane to get it.

Details about her life shift across conversations.

Keep records. The messaging apps timestamp everything. A woman whose father's profession changes between the third and the seventh week, whose city of origin shifts, whose educational history does not hold — is not forgetting. She is managing a story.

SIGNAL 09

She is reluctant to involve her family.

In every culture where genuine women are found on matrimonial platforms — North Africa, the Middle East, Southeast Asia, Sub-Saharan Africa — the family is the governing structure. A woman who resists family involvement, who offers vague explanations for why her father cannot be part of the conversation, is either not who she presents herself as, or is pursuing something her family does not know about.

SIGNAL 10

She moves the conversation off the platform immediately.

Every major matrimonial platform has fraud monitoring. Moving to WhatsApp removes that monitoring. When this is suggested before any real vetting has occurred, the question is: why does she need to leave the protected environment so quickly?

SIGNAL 11

When you slow down, a new crisis appears.

Test this deliberately. Become less responsive. Introduce a week of reduced contact. Watch what happens. If a new urgency emerges precisely as your engagement diminishes — you are watching a system respond to a variable, not a woman responding to a relationship.

SIGNAL 12

She has a smooth answer for every concern you raise.

Genuine women do not have perfect answers to difficult questions. They hesitate. They ask for time to think. They sometimes say they do not know. A woman whose responses are always immediate, always satisfying, always just sufficient to resolve your concern — is performing, not responding.

SECTION THREE

The Vetting Tools

These are not suggestions. They are the standard. Apply every one of them before you consider purchasing a flight.

TOOL 01 — Reverse Image Search

Upload every photo she has provided to images.google.com and tineye.com. Run both. Do this before the end of the first week of correspondence. If the results are clean, continue. If they are not, you have your answer at no cost beyond your time.

TOOL 02 — The Spontaneous Video Call

Call without warning. Not as surveillance — as a man who thinks of her. Do this multiple times, at different hours, over the first month. Note the background. Note who else is present or audible. Note whether the person who answers the spontaneous call is the same as the person who answers the scheduled one.

TOOL 03 — The Social Media Audit

Ask for her Facebook, Instagram, or TikTok. Note when the account was created. Look at who comments on her posts and what they say. A real woman's social media is a window into her actual life — her friendships, her family, her history. An account created recently, with generic engagement, is not that window.

TOOL 04 — The Family Introduction

Request to speak with her father or a senior male family member within the first two months. Frame it correctly — not as an interrogation, but as respect for the proper process. A genuine woman from a traditional family will recognize this as the right move. A fraudster will find reasons it cannot happen.

TOOL 05 — The Consistency Test

Keep records of everything she tells you about herself. Review them at the one-month mark. Her father's profession. The name of her city. Where she attended school. How many siblings she has. These details should be consistent across every conversation. Inconsistency is not a minor flaw. It is a structural failure of the story she is telling.

TOOL 06 — The Money Rule

No money. Not a small amount. Not for a phone. Not for her sick cousin. Not for a visa fee. No money before you have physically met her, physically met her family, and the formal process of marriage has legally begun. This rule has no exceptions. The man who makes an exception has already told the fraud he is available.

TOOL 07 — The Six-Month Standard

Six months of consistent, documented correspondence before any travel is planned. Not six weeks. Not three months. Six months. In that time — if she is genuine — you will know her. Her patterns, her values, her relationship with her family, her understanding of what she is agreeing to. In that time — if she is not — she will have revealed herself against your standard.

SECTION FOUR

What A Genuine Woman Looks Like

The purpose of vetting is not to find reasons to reject. It is to identify what is real. A man who only knows the warning signs will become paranoid. A man who also knows what genuine looks like will become discerning. There is a difference.

She Is Slow To Trust

A genuine woman from a traditional family does not open easily. Her responses in the early weeks are measured, careful, sometimes brief. She is evaluating you as carefully as you should be evaluating her. She does not perform warmth before it is earned. When the warmth comes — and it will come, if you are patient and correct — it will feel different from the warmth that arrived in the first message.

Her Family Is Present

In every culture where genuine traditional women are found, the family is not a background detail. It is the governing structure of her life. She will mention her father's opinion. She will ask to consult her mother. She will tell you that things must be done in a certain way because that is how her family does them. This is not an obstacle. This is the signal you are looking for.

She Asks Questions About You

A genuine woman is evaluating you. She wants to know about your faith, your family, your character, your intentions. A woman who asks no questions — who only answers yours, only performs for your approval — is not evaluating you. She is managing you. The genuine woman is a participant in the vetting process, not its subject.

She Is Consistent

Her story does not shift. Her father is always the same man. Her city is always the same city. Her values are the same in the third month as they were in the first. Consistency is not glamorous. It does not produce the excitement of discovery. But it is the single most reliable indicator that you are speaking with a real person who is telling you the truth about her life.

She Does Not Need Your Money

A genuine woman from a family of integrity is not looking for a financial solution. She is looking for a husband. The distinction is visible. When money is never mentioned — when no crisis requiring your financial intervention materializes — that silence is data. It is among the most important data you will collect.

"The genuine woman does not need you to rescue her. She needs you to be worthy of her."

SECTION FIVE

The Standard Applied — Region by Region

The warning signs are universal. The application of the standard must be regional. What a genuine woman looks like in Morocco is not identical to what she looks like in Indonesia or Senegal. The cultural context shapes the signals. Know the context.

NORTH AFRICA — MOROCCO, TUNISIA, ALGERIA, EGYPT

Family honor is structural, not sentimental. A father's silence is not indifference — it is evaluation. A genuine woman in this region will not move without her father's awareness and involvement. Correspondence that bypasses the family entirely is a red flag regardless of how warm it feels. The genuine woman here is often slower to respond, more formal in early messages, and will reference her family's opinion consistently.

MIDDLE EAST — JORDAN, LEBANON, YEMEN

You are petitioning a family, not courting a woman. A man who approaches a Middle Eastern woman without approaching her family has disqualified himself in the eyes of everyone who matters. The genuine woman will tell you this directly or indirectly within the first several weeks. She will not hide that her father must be involved. She will not pretend the family can be bypassed.

SOUTHEAST ASIA — INDONESIA, PHILIPPINES, BANGLADESH

Indonesia operates on rukun — social harmony. Disagreement is expressed indirectly. A yes does not always mean yes. Learn to read what is not said. The Philippines brings Catholic family values and strong family embeddedness — and the possibility that financial remittance is expected as part of the marriage. Know what you are agreeing to before you agree. Bangladesh values education and professional accomplishment highly. Respect these achievements rather than being threatened by them.

SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA — SENEGAL, GHANA, ETHIOPIA, KENYA

You are entering a lineage, not just a relationship. The bride price negotiation is a covenant between two families — treat it as such. A genuine woman here will expect you to engage her family formally and respectfully. The man who treats the bride price as a fee to be minimized has told the family everything they need to know about how he will value their daughter.

LATIN AMERICA — COLOMBIA, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC, PERU

The greatest danger in Latin America is false familiarity. Shared cultural references create an illusion of understanding that does not exist at the level of family structure and social obligation. Family gatherings are evaluations. How you treat the grandmother, whether you help clear the table, how you speak about people who are not in the room — all of it is being assessed. Learn Spanish. There is no substitute.
